Why did a US Embassy install phone taps in Athens?

The location of the monitored phones correlates nicely with apartments and other property under the control of the U.S. Embassy in Athens. Under this theory, phone taps of Arabs and members of antiauthoritarian groups were installed because of fears of a terrorist attack on the Athens Olympics.

How did Vodafone Greece communicate?

Instead, Vodafone Greece communicated through a political channel—the prime minister’s office. It should be noted the ADAE was a fairly new organization at the time, formed in 2003. The response of Greek law enforcement officials also left a lot to be desired.

How do wiretaps work in Greece?

Though the details differ from country to country, in Greece, as in most places, the process starts when a law enforcement official goes to a court and obtains a warrant, which is then presented to the phone company whose customer is to be tapped. Nowadays, all wiretaps are carried out at the central office.

Why did the NSA install phone taps in Athens?

Under this theory, phone taps of Arabs and members of antiauthoritarian groups were installed because of fears of a terrorist attack on the Athens Olympics. It is widely believed that these U.S. agencies, particularly the NSA, have all the necessary tools and expertise for mounting such an attack.
