Control switchgear in China in Netherlands

Overview

Why did the Dutch government suspend a Chinese-owned chipmaker Nexperia?

The Dutch government on Wednesday said it suspended its intervention at Chinese-owned chipmaker Nexperia, following constructive talks with Chinese authorities. "We see this as a show of goodwill," Dutch Economy Minister Vincent Karremans said in a statement, posted on social media platform X.

Will the Netherlands support Nexperia in China?

China has asked the Dutch government to support Nexperia in sending representatives to China, He Yadong, a spokesperson for the Chinese commerce ministry, told a regular press briefing. He urged the Netherlands to create favourable conditions for internal negotiations within the company.

Will a new Nexperia chip development end a dispute between China & Netherlands?

The development appears to bring an end to a bitter dispute between the Netherlands and China, one that had prompted global automotive groups to raise the alarm over a worsening chip shortage. This photograph shows a general view of Nexperia headquarters in Nijmegen on Novem.

Why is China's switchgear industry important?

The Chinese government is increasingly prioritizing green technologies, pushing companies to adopt sustainable practices. Furthermore, the global market relevance of China's switchgear industry is significant, as it is one of the largest producers and consumers of electrical equipment.
