How much power can a PV system generate in 2023?

We estimate that the theoretical power generation capacity of PV systems installed across all mine sites globally (45,707.28 km<sup>2</sup>) could reach 5,807,713 GWh year<sup>-1</sup>, approximately 3.5 times the global PV electricity output in 2023 (1,641,577 GWh) (Figure 1B).

How to calculate PV power generation per unit of land area?

The PVO<sub>UT</sub> value is then converted to power generated per unit of land area using a default value C, which is fixed at 1.6 ha MW<sup>-1</sup> according to previous studies. By multiplying the power generated per unit of land area by the total land area, we can yield the annual PV power generation (Equation 1).

Are large-scale PV systems a good investment?

Within this context, the installation of large-scale PV systems may appeal to institutional investors and energy companies, potentially mitigating the environmental footprint associated with both mining activities and renewable energy development on post-mining lands.

Can solar power be used in Sub-Saharan Africa?

Sub-Saharan Africa, which accounts for approximately 80% of the global population without electricity, stands to benefit significantly. For instance, PV systems on mining lands in this region could generate an estimated 441,396.9 GWh year<sup>-1</sup>, which is sufficient to provide power to nearly 120 million people.
