What factors affect the price of shipping containers in South Africa?

The larger the container, the higher the cost. The condition of the shipping container also plays a significant role in pricing. A brand new container will cost more than a used one, and the degree of wear and tear can also affect the pricing. Transportation is another factor that can impact the price of shipping containers in South Africa.

Why are secondhand shipping containers so popular in South Africa?

This has been a world-wide phenomenon with most shipping containers now manufactured in China. Secondhand containers are a hot commodity when they reach the end of their shipping life. In South Africa there is an informal grading system which attempts to categorise these containers according to their cosmetic appearance.

Why are containers so expensive in South Africa?

This is because stock availability of containers varies in each region. Limited stock in a particular region means that the cost of sourcing containers will increase container prices slightly. Unfortunately, container fraud is rampant in South Africa and if you're not careful you could get scammed.
