Overview

What is a fixed price catering contract?

In a fixed price catering contract, the caterer gives the customer a fixed pricing for the catering services. All the labour costs in these contracts are borne by the caterer. Therefore, the cost of fixed price contracts can run high because the caterer takes into account any risk that is involved.

How do I create a catering contract?

Utilize our professional template to save time and resources. Answer a few simple questions to create your custom legal document. Print your document online or download a copy for Word (.docx) or PDF. Your Catering Contract will be ready in as little as 5 minutes.

What is a catering contract?

It outlines the caterer's responsibilities and the date and venue of the event. The document is one of the most detailed contracts you will sign when hosting an event. It must state the number of people the caterer will feed, the menu details, such as starters, main courses, desserts, drinks, and the ingredients they will use.

What payment details should be included in a catering contract?

Payment details that need to be included are the compensation by the customer to the caterer for the services being provided and any advance deposit for the service. Further, the contract should describe when the customer can be invoiced by the caterer and the timeline for due payment.
