Do solar panels need to be replaced after 25 years?

After 25 years, your solar panels won't necessarily need to be replaced; however, their ability to absorb sunlight will be reduced. In this blog, we'll explain how long solar panels last, review solar panel degradation rates, and ways to make sure your solar panels last as long as possible.

Do solar panels degrade over time?

All solar panels degrade over time as exposure to the elements slowly reduces their ability to convert sunlight into electricity. The rate of degradation varies by brand and quality, but it's usually around 0.5% efficiency loss per year.

What happens to solar panels after 25 years?

After 25 years, your solar panels will likely still generate electricity, but at a lower efficiency. At this stage, you have three main options: keep them in service if they're still performing well; upgrade to newer, more efficient models; or recycle them through an approved solar panel recycling scheme.

Does sun damage solar panels?

Thankfully, most solar panel manufacturers create panels with UV blockers that protect the panels from most damage, but yes - the sun itself does contribute to degradation. In fact, solar panel degradation rates are highest just hours after installation when they're first exposed to the sun and its UV rays.
