What does DRC & Zambia have in common?

They seek to maximize their role in regional and global value chains by adding value to the resources extracted from their soil. One key initiative is the partnership between the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) and Zambia to produce nickel, manganese and cobalt (NMC) battery precursors.

Will Zambia meet its own nickel production needs?

First Quantum's large nickel mine, Enterprise, started production in Zambia this year, which will add a massive 30,000 t a year on average. Nevertheless, this volume may still be insufficient for Zambia to meet the precursor plant's needs on its own even if refining facilities were constructed and all production was supplied to the plant.

How will precursor production benefit the DRC and Zambia?

People in the DRC and Zambia could benefit greatly from precursor production in their countries, particularly if the associated energy and transport infrastructure is leveraged for wider use. However, government efforts in other policy areas will be at least as important.
